INTRODUCTION

These guidelines are prepared by WFOT to assist qualified occupational therapists who are seeking work outside their own country.

This can be a unique, enriching, professional and personal experience, but serious questions need to be addressed by the individual therapist before the process of careful planning can begin.

Be honest in answering these questions -

1. Do you have a speaking knowledge of the language of the host country?

This is of vital importance for all levels of communication in order to make the experience meaningful to yourself and your hosts. NB Non verbal communication is also important. Whether you are dealing with patients, with doctors, with a landlady or the grocer, you can neither understand their questions nor form your own if you cannot use their words. Remember that communication includes understanding of local religion and beliefs about illness.

2. Are you able to adapt to all types of conditions?

Although you will see many more similarities than differences in life in general, you will nevertheless encounter differences that will both amuse and frustrate you. It is a good idea to be prepared for problems to arise. However, instead of trying to change the conditions to your usual pattern, can you adjust yourself to those of the host country?

3. How good is your health - physically and emotionally?

Unless your physical and emotional health are excellent, do not attempt to go abroad. Problems do not go away when you go to live elsewhere. Your system must be able to withstand changes in climate, in nutrition, in working hours and human attitudes.

4. How good is your professional knowledge?

Unless you have had at least one year, and preferably more, of working experience in occupational therapy, do not attempt to work abroad. Your skills and knowledge will be challenged every day and should be strong enough to benefit from giving as well as taking. In many instances, you will be the first professional representative from your country - it is a tremendous responsibility to represent your entire professional population. Are you ready to accept this?

5. Do you really know your own country?

As a therapist abroad you are also an ambassador of your own country and should be prepared to answer every type of question about government, education, cultural patterns, politics, sports, etc.

6. How much do you know about sources of financial support for overseas appointments?

It is always best to enquire first in your own country through governmental or charitable organisations. Be sure that you know about salary scales for non-citizens and how these relate to cost of living.

7. Are you aware of the specific financial implications of taking money out of and into another country?

There are restrictions on the amounts for certain countries which would influence the funds you have available for living expenses while abroad.

8. Insurance

Professional indemnity insurance may be necessary. Check your personal cover early in your planning.

Make sure you have adequate medical and repatriation insurance as well as cover for personal belongings. Think twice about taking valuable possessions.

9. Financial commitments at home

Do you have a mortgage to maintain? A house to let? Insurance payments? Any other outstanding financial matters? Consider this in relation to your eventual return.

10. Coming back

Most people find that they experience 'reverse culture shock', so make sure that you have people around you who understand this.

Further information

Specific requirements about individual countries can be obtained from your WFOT Delegate, who can also provide information about contact addresses.

You may use these guidelines in seeking work in non-member countries. Please share information with your delegate so that networks can be built up. You can post your work experience / information in the OTION forum through the WFOT website www.wfot.org – OTION.

To learn about visa and entry regulations and policies, contact the embassy or consulate of the country in which you seek employment.

Make use of the Internet - Web pages are included where known.

Much of the information you need must be obtained by you. To establish contact write to the agency of your choice or the addresses given by the country in which you are interested and include the following information:

- Full name, title and address, clearly printed or typed.
- The clinical area in which you desire to work.
- Brief details of your work experience.
- The geographical areas in which you would prefer to, plan to, or are willing to live.
- Information about your level of knowledge of the language of the country.
- If possible, write your letter in the language of the country.

Give an estimate of the amount of time you wish to spend in the country - six months, one year.

Good luck!

AUSTRALIA

OT AUSTRALIA

The following information can be found on the OT AUSTRALIA national website, www.ausot.com.au, search words 'working in Australia'

Eligibility to Practice Occupational Therapy:

All occupational therapists who have trained overseas are required to undergo an assessment conducted by the Council of Occupational Therapy Registration Boards (COTRB).

This assessment process involves an initial desktop audit where you will need to meet a number of criteria before being able to migrate. Once in the country, you will complete a goal-directed practice audit in your initial employment, designed to ensure that your practice skills develop and that you are able to attain standards required in an Australian work context.

For full details, contact the COTRB directly:

COTRB

PO Box 229

TORRENSVILLE PLAZA SA 5031

Telephone: +61 8 8443 9375

Fax: +61 8 8443 9550

Email: cotrb@sboards.com.au

Web: www.cotrb.sboards.com.au

New Zealand Registered Occupational Therapists

The exception to the above requirement is that occupational therapists who are eligible for registration in New Zealand may be automatically eligible to practice in most states of Australia, except WA due to the introduction of the Trans Tasmania Mutual Recognition Agreement.

If for example, you are a British trained occupational therapist who has sat the NZOTRB exam in New Zealand and are registered to practice in New Zealand – you may be eligible to work in Australia.

Registration for Occupational Therapists in Australia

There are eight states and territories in Australia, only four of which have registration. These are Queensland, Northern Territory, South Australia and Western Australia.

If you wish to practice in any of these states you will need to contact the relevant Occupational Therapy Registration Board (via COTRB). In the four states without registration, New South Wales, Australian Capital Territory, Victoria and Tasmania, you are eligible to practice once you have successfully completed the COTRB practice audit.

BANGLADESH

In Bangladesh we don't have any occupational therapy regulatory body formed by the government. Here the general requirement of recruiting OTs are:

- 1) The national candidate has to pass a degree or diploma from any recognised university or the government state medical faculty
- 2) For foreign therapists qualified in abroad need to first arrange the work either paid or volunteer with proper OT degree or diploma. Then with this arrangement he or she has to get work permit from the relevant ministry to start working in Bangladesh.
- 3) Nationally qualified therapist has to be member of the Bangladesh Occupational Therapy Association (BOTA)

BELGIUM

2. Language: French and Dutch

3. Immigration regulations and work permit requirements:
 - a) Source of information
Belgian Embassy from your country
 - b) Terms of employment with reference to immigration qualifications
In Belgium, we have 15 schools and there is no lack of OT; on the contrary, some OT do not find work.

4. Professional information
 - a) Association address
National Federation of Belgian Occupational Therapists www.ergobel.be or regional associations www.ergo-ae.be (French speaking) and www.ergotherapie.be (Dutch speaking)
 - b) Source of information about positions available
Regional associations but there is no lack of OT in Belgium

5. Educational Requirements:

For NON-EUROPEAN countries, you must apply to the Ministry of Education for the region where you want to work, to see if your educational programme is equivalent and you may have to present some exams even if your diploma is from a WFOT-approved school.

For EUROPEAN countries except Netherlands, the implementation of the Directive 89/48/CEE is not yet ready and you must still ask the recognition of your diploma to the Ministry of Education.

For Netherlands qualified OT there is a special agreement of equivalence for OT diploma between Belgium and Netherlands.

6. Professional or Association qualifying exam:
No request but recommendation of good knowledge of French or Dutch or both depending on the region where the person wants to work.

7. Legal or Governmental exams or requirements:
 - a) For foreign therapists:
Getting the equivalence of diploma
 - b) Source of information
Addresses of ministry in charge of the equivalence : please go to our website: www.ergobel.be and the French or Dutch information as you must apply to the ministry of the region where you want to work. Addresses are changing and we are updating them on the web www.ergobel.be

8. Minimum requirements for employment

a) Years of experience

Only equivalence of diploma is required

b) WFOT approved school or other

c) Language

Good knowledge of the language of the region even if this requirement is again the EU regulation. Employers will only select OT speaking the language of the region and in Brussels we must speak French and Dutch.

9. General / Other Information:

Belgium is centrally situated in Europe and many international organisations and companies are headquartered there. Many foreign occupational therapists live in our country with their families and are confronted with problems linked to OT diploma equivalence and languages before looking for employment.

Belgium is a small country divided into regions (still smaller!) having distinct characteristics, such as different languages, regulations and laws.

Practicality, the OT must be reasonably fluent in the language of the region where he (she) intends to work, either French or Dutch (Flemish), and in Brussels a good knowledge of both languages.

In Belgium, we have 15 schools and there is no lack of OT; on the contrary, some OT do not find work

BRAZIL

2. Language: Portuguese
3. Immigration regulations and work requirements:
 - a) Source of information
Brazilian Ministry of Labour
 - b) Terms of employment with reference to immigration qualifications
A work permit should be requested by a Brazilian institution to the Brazilian Ministry of Labour.
Requirement is analysed by the Brazilian Ministry of Labour (BML) according to Brazilian legislation. Once approved the work permit is sent to the Brazilian Ministry of International Affairs (MIA) which forwards the authorisation to the Brazilian Consulate or Embassy of the country of the professional;
The occupational therapist should produce equivalence of her /his educational qualification and practical experience in the related professional field, having at least two (2) years of professional practice;
Brazil has special agreements with some countries where specific procedures regarding work permits apply. Information can be obtained at Brazilian Consulates or Embassies or at the applicant's own country's foreign office;
There are also special work permit requirements for a university position.
4. Professional Information:
 - a) Association address:
Associacao Brasileira dos Terapeutas Ocupacionais (ABRATO)
R.Jaime Telles, 133/503
90460.030 Porto Alegre-RS
BRASIL
 - b) Positions available:
Clinical Occupational Therapist
There are no formal positions available. The O.T. can work as a clinician and/or as a head of a team. In the health system the positions vary from one institution to another;
The professional can also work in private clinical practice, as a clinical supervisor as well as a consultant. He can also work in private companies at the Human Resource Departments.

Teaching
At universities or Occupational Therapy Schools the positions are teacher, researcher, clinical supervisor, Head of the Department or Course Co-ordinator. The requirements for such positions vary from one University to another according to professional's formal education (Specialisation, Master or Doctoral Degrees) and clinical and/or management experiences.
5. Educational Requirements:
 - a) Degree or Diploma and type of institution
University degree
 - b) Length of Programme:
4 (four) Years at least 3600 hours (1000 hours clinical)
 - c) Qualifying exams:
Necessary only when the Degree Certificate is not equivalent to the Brazilian National Curriculum. To consider a foreign degree certificate as equivalent to a Brazilian one, the following steps are necessary:

The professional should apply to a Brazilian Public University with a recognised occupational Therapy Course for the equivalence of his/her Degree Certificate.

The following documents are necessary:

Degree Certificate, Course Curriculum with the length of the Course and the applicant's undergraduate curriculum. The documents must be translated officially to Portuguese and authenticated by the Brazilian Consulate.

A special commission will be designated to examine and judge the equivalence of the curricula. The Commission will be composed of teachers from the university or from outside. Two major aspects will be examined - applicant's qualifications and adequacy of documentation and course equivalence.

The Commission can decide for qualifying exams if the equivalence between the Occupational Therapy Courses is not clear. The exams must be taken in Portuguese;

If the criteria for the certificate revalidation is not achieved, complementary studies in a Brazilian university with an Occupational Therapy Course will be recommended.

When the Certificate revalidation process is approved, the subsequent procedure is to apply for professional registration at one of the Brazilian Regional Occupational Therapy Councils. (see below)

6. Professional or Association qualifying exam:

FINLAND

2. Language: Finnish and Swedish are the two official languages in Finland

Licensing or use of a protected title (see the text later) does not involve any language proficiency requirements confirmed by the public authorities. The employer (e.g. the local authority) may, however, require a certificate of language skills. More than 90 percent of the population in Finland speak Finnish as their native language, and slightly over 5 percent speak Swedish.

3. Immigration Regulations and Requirements:

a) Source of information

The nearest Finnish Consulate or Embassy

b) Terms of employment with reference to immigration qualifications

In order to be able to start working in Finland as a health care professional, you must submit an application to the National Board of Medicolegal Affairs (Terveydenhuollon oikeusturvakeskus TEO, see the information later in this text) for the right to practise your profession.

People coming from EU-countries:

In the fee-form application the applicant must specify the profession that s/he wish to practise. The applicant must date and sign the document in his/her own hand. It is recommended that the application be made in Finnish, Swedish or English. The application must include the following enclosures:

Passport (copy)

Degree certificate

A valid certificate of your right to practise your profession in the EU Member state from which you come to Finland

A certificate showing that your education complies with the requirements lay down in the pertinent EU Directives.

The enclosures must be officially certified copies of the original documents. Translations of the documents into Finnish, Swedish or English must also be presented. The certificate of the compliance of your education with the pertinent EU Directives must be the original document, and it may not be more than three (3) months old. TEO will keep the application documents. TEO's decision on the right to practise a profession is issued in Finnish or in Swedish, The decision is subject to a fee of 70 euros (after decision).

Joint Nordic labour market:

The agreement on the joint Nordic labour market for certain personnel groups engaged in health care and in care of the sick came into effect on 1 January 1994. The agreement is based on the fact that the education in the health care sector is so similar in all the Nordic countries that a person licensed or otherwise approved in one Nordic country can be granted the corresponding rights in another Nordic country. The agreement applies to occupational therapists.

People coming from other than EU and Nordic countries

Workers coming to Finland from abroad and outside EU and the Nordic countries must obtain also a residence permit if their employment lasts longer than three (3) months. The police department of the place of residence grants the residence permit. For obtaining a permit, you need your passport or ID card, a photograph and your employment contract or some other document of your employment.

The National Board of Medicolegal Affairs (TEO) is an information centre that provides information on issues such as practising OT in the health care sector. The contact data for TEO are:

5. Educational Requirements:

a) Type of registration or certification:

The National Board of Medicolegal Affairs inspects and approves the education for health care professionals and recognises their degrees.

b) Additional qualifications:

In cases where a person's qualifications do not correspond to the education received in Finland, TEO may require professional experience, an adaptation period for a profession or a qualification test before the person can be licensed or permitted to use a protected title.

6. Minimum requirements:

Same as a) and b) above

a) Applicants from non-WFOT countries

Same as a) and b) above

b) Additional requirements

Employing agencies may have further requirements, eg concerning vaccinations.

7. Additional information:

The National Board of Medicolegal Affairs (TEO) is responsible for the Central Register of Health Care Professionals (TERHIKKI), which is maintained by the National Research and Development Centre for Welfare and Health (STAKES). TERHIKKI contains the following data on more than 200,000 health care professionals:

- personal data and address
- data on professional education and special qualifications
- the right to practice a profession
- control data e.g. limitation or revocation of the right to practice a profession

The Finnish health care system comprises workers with highly varied educational backgrounds. Some of these professional groups are encompassed by the system of registration. Registered professionals in health care are divided into three groups: those who are licensed, those who are granted a permit, and those entitled to use a protected title. Professionals coming from the EU Member States may either be licensed or entitled to use a protected title.

On application the National Board of Medicolegal Affairs grants the right to practise a profession, i.e. a person is licensed. Occupational therapists are licensed professionals.

ICELAND

2. Language: Icelandic

Icelandic is the original Norse language. Almost every Icelander is multilingual: English and Danish are understood by most people. Several courses in Icelandic are available and people working in Iceland are expected to enrol in one. Icelandic is a very difficult language and presents a major stumbling block to functioning effectively.

b) Source of Information about positions available

Association (address above).

5. Educational Requirements:

a) Degree or diploma/type of institution

Diploma or degree from an Occupational Therapy school recognised by WFOT.

a) Additional qualifications

Once in Iceland, one must apply for an Icelandic licence by submitting a copy of their Occupational Therapy diploma or degree, a transcript of grades if available, and a small fee to the Icelandic Ministry of Health which consults with the Icelandic Occupational Therapy Association regarding validity of credentials.

4. Minimum Requirements for Employment:

Because the profession is so young in Iceland, a HIGH DEGREE OF PREVIOUS WORK EXPERIENCE is desirable, preferably at least 2 years.

Some employers ask for a minimum employment commitment of one year.

It should be noted that increasing numbers of employers refuse to hire foreign therapists because of past difficult experiences and the long time it takes before the foreigner can function independently and effectively.

Applicants from non-WFOT countries:
Not acceptable.

8. Minimum requirements for employment:

a) Years of experience

A (newly) qualified staff grade / basis grade occupational therapist can commence working in Ireland once they have the necessary educational qualification, visa or work permit (if required) and Garda Clearance (see section 9 below).

A staff grade occupational Therapist is only eligible to apply for a Senior position once they can demonstrate that they have a minimum of three years experience. Note this does not mean 'qualified' for three years or more but that the person has 'worked' for three years or more.

To be eligible for a Clinical Specialist post one is required to have worked for a minimum of five years in a specialty.

To be eligible for an 'Occupational Therapist Managers' post one is required to have had five years post graduate experience.

An occupational therapist is not required to have a defined amount of experience to set up a Private Practice – technically one could do this after graduating.

b) Approved school or other

WFOT Approved!

c) Language

There is no formal language test required.

Ireland has the right, like other Member States within the EU to require migrants, if it so wishes, to demonstrate that they have the knowledge of the language(s) necessary for practicing the profession in Ireland.

Article 53 of the Directive 2005/36/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 7 September 2005 on the recognition of professional qualifications under the section on 'Knowledge of languages' states that:

Persons benefiting from the recognition of professional qualifications shall have a knowledge of languages necessary for practising the profession in the host Member State.

<http://europa-eu/scadplus/leg/en/cha/c11065.htm>

9. General / Other Information:

a. European Directives 89/48/EEC, 92/51/EEC and 2005/36/EC

The European Directives 89/48/EEC, 92/51/EEC and 2005/36/EC establish a system for the recognition of Diplomas and Qualification in one European Community (EC) member state which have been acquired in another EC member state.

This professional recognition system requires a member state to take into consideration the diplomas, certificates and other evidence of qualifications, which an applicant has acquired in order to practice their profession in their member state of origin. The Validation Committee of The Association of Occupational Therapists of Ireland (AOTI) then compare that with the knowledge, abilities and qualifications required by the national rules for Ireland to determine an applicant's eligibility to practice occupational therapy in Ireland.

Under Article 8 of Directive 89/48/EEC and Article 12 of Directive 92/51/EEC, it is the applicant's responsibility to provide documentary proof that she / he holds the relevant qualifications / diplomas required within the meaning of the directive.

The Validation Committee of The Association of Occupational Therapists of Ireland (AOTI) review all applications qualifications to the same high standard regardless if an applicant is from within the EC or not.

Under the above Directives there is a time limit of four months for a response once the completed file with all the requested information has been submitted. This applies to all EC applications. For Non EC applications there is no specified time limit for a response.

Applications will not be considered until all the requested information has been submitted.

B. Validation by the Department of Health and Children

The AOTI 'validates' the qualifications of foreign trained occupational Therapists to ensure that they are 'broadly equivalent' to those of an Irish trained occupational therapist. The information required for the validation process is sought in agreement with the Department of Health & Children of Ireland and the Association of Occupational Therapists of Ireland.

1. Candidates should be in possession of a qualification in occupational therapy that satisfies the 89/48/EEC, 92/51/EEC and 2005/36/EC European Directives (see above for details).
2. Candidates are required to have a minimum of 1,000 hours from clinical placements.
3. A minimum of 250 psychosocial hours and 250 physical and sensory disabilities hours is required as a component of the total 1,000 hours.

7. Legal or Governmental exams or requirements:
 - a) For foreign therapists: Getting registered

The procedure of the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare involves presenting relevant documents, such as occupational therapy license, occupational therapy diploma, study results, content of studied course, and so forth. Diploma, license and similar official documents should be legalized by local authorities. All documents should be translated into Japanese and certified by a Japanese notary stating that the translation is based on true documents and as accurate as possible (done to the best of one's abilities). An application form and a form to be completed by a medical doctor (drug-use is one reason for rejection of applications) are provided by the Ministry. Finally, the applicant may be required to provide other information as well, such as an outline of the main points of the laws concerning occupational therapy from the country/state where the applicant obtained a license/diploma, a resume, and so forth. Non- Japanese nationals need to provide proof of fluency in Japanese. This entails passing the level one test of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (examinations are held once a year, around the world, on the first Sunday of December). Graduation from a Japanese High School will suffice too. Collecting all the documents, official recognitions, translation and so forth will take at least several months. It may even take half a year or more, because it is not uncommon to be told that documentation is insufficient or incomplete and that one needs to resubmit after additional information has been added. The investigation that leads to granting or refusing the license-application will take another 3 months from the moment the documents have been presented at the ministry and accepted by the responsible official. Finally, regulations at the ministry require that the applicant comes in person to receive the instructions for the application as well as submitting the necessary documentation. It is not known if persons living abroad may apply at the embassy of Japan, or other legal representative, in their country. Alternatively, one may also attempt the national licensing examination (administered once a year in March), but the qualification for being allowed to sit on this exam need to be clarified with the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare.

8. Minimum requirements for employment:

a) Years of experience

Depending on the position. Note that the best opportunities are in research and education, advisory/consultancy or as volunteer or assistant

b) WFOT approved school or other

Full time appointments as educator (teacher or higher) require at least 5 years clinical experience, or at universities a Masters degree or higher.

c) Language

In education and research English may suffice, but generally Japanese language abilities are required.

9. General / Other Information:

Under Japanese law one needs a Japanese occupational therapy license for practicing occupational therapy in Japan. However, there are opportunities to work in the field of occupational therapy without actually being directly in charge of treatment. Education and research are obvious examples, and there are also opportunities as English teacher, guest lecturer, consultancy, volunteer work, and so forth. Finally, one needs to be aware that applying to advertised jobs does happen, but is not the norm. Finding employment is more often than not achieved via personal and professional networks and introduction by a "third party", who is usually an acquaintance or persons already working at the organization of interest.

NEW ZEALAND

Language: English

Practice Requirements

The regulatory body governing the practice of occupational therapy in New Zealand is the Occupational Therapy Board of New Zealand (OTBNZ). Information about the requirements to practise in New Zealand and how to apply for registration are available from the OTBNZ website: <http://www.otboard.org.nz>.

English Language Requirements

Please refer to the Board website <http://www.immigration.govt.nz/> for more detailed information on the Board's English Language requirements. If English is not the applicant's first or home language, the Board accepts the results of the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), with an overall score of 7.5 in the academic test, and a minimum score of 7 in each band.

In some situations applicants may apply to the Board for an exemption from the requirement to provide the IELTS results. Such applications are considered on a case-by-case basis.

Immigration Regulations and Requirements

Those wishing to obtain information about immigration regulations and the current employment situation in New Zealand should visit the website of the New Zealand Government Immigration Service at: <http://www.immigration.govt.nz/>, and/or contact the nearest New Zealand Embassy or High Commission.

Key points to note are:

1. In order to work legally as an occupational therapist in New Zealand it is necessary to be registered by the OTBNZ, and to hold a current practising certificate each practising year (1 April to 31 March).
2. Applications for registration from therapists who have undertaken their training overseas are considered on a case by case basis, and the Board does not operate any form of accreditation system.
3. In determining eligibility for registration the OTBNZ considers both the comparability of qualifications and evaluates clinical and cultural competence for the scope of practice: Occupational Therapist.
4. Where applicants fail to satisfy the Board of the equivalence of their qualification and/or of their clinical and cultural competence, they may be given the opportunity of undertaking the Board's Competency Examination.

Enquiries to : The Deputy Registrar, Occupational Therapy Board of New Zealand, P O Box 10 202, Wellington, New Zealand, Ph: 0064 4 918 4740, Fax: 0064 4 918 4746, despina@otboard.org.nz.

Professional Information

The New Zealand Association of Occupational Therapists (NZAOT) is the professional association for occupational therapists throughout New Zealand.

Its role is to:

1. Promote excellence in occupational therapy practice and professional ethics in Aotearoa/New Zealand.
2. Represent the benefits and value of occupational therapy to the people of Aotearoa/New Zealand.
3. Promote the continuing development of the profession of occupational therapy.

4. Promote the interests of the membership of the Association to Government and non-government organizations within Aotearoa/New Zealand and internationally.
5. Promote and facilitate professional development and research opportunities, academic activities and publications within occupational therapy.

Occupational therapists practising in New Zealand are encouraged to belong to NZAOT. Occupational therapists living outside New Zealand are welcome to join NZAOT as Associate members. They will then receive a copy of the monthly magazine, OT Insight, which includes job advertisements and news of interest to occupational therapists.

All members have access to special interest groups (on-line discussion forums) and a members only section which includes access to occupational therapy evidence based databases and the NZAOT Values Exchange – an on line ethical reasoning tool.

Current job vacancies can be viewed online at www.baot.org.uk in the classified section (available to members of the British Association of Occupational Therapists only) and in the BAOT publications OTN – Occupational Therapy News and BJOT – British Journal of Occupational Therapy available each month. A number of international recruitment agencies operate in the UK and many employers operate their own recruitment websites.

We recommend that all occupational therapists wanting to work in the UK make themselves fully aware of the national policies, professional conduct, guidelines and standards governing practice here. The best way to do this is to become an overseas member of the British Association of Occupational Therapists. On becoming a registered occupational therapist practicing in the UK, you will be able to upgrade your membership to become a Professional Member of the British Association/College of Occupational Therapists. Our Membership Section will be able to offer further advice. Contact membership@cot.co.uk

 - b) Terms of employment with reference to immigration qualifications

Requirements to work in the United States include:

 1. Attaining a visa. The U.S. Department of Homeland Security issues visas to foreign nationals wishing to work in the United States. In most cases, this will be a category H1B temporary work visa. You must get a visa certificate before applying for a visa. Two organizations are authorized by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to provide visa certification. They are:
 - National Board for Certification in Occupational Therapy (NBCOT)
<http://www.nbcot.org>
 - Commission on Graduates of Foreign Nursing Schools (CGFNS)
<http://www.cgfns.org>
 2. Qualifying to take the certification exam given by the National Board for Certification in Occupational Therapy (NBCOT) and passing it.
 3. Passing tests of English language competency, if applicable.
 4. Meeting state regulatory requirements, including attaining a license in those states where it is required.
4. Professional information:

AOTA's OTJoblink <http://www.otjoblink.org>
5. Educational Requirements:
 - a) Degree or diploma/type of institution
 - b) Length of programme
 - c) Qualifying exam

National Board for Certification in Occupational Therapy (NBCOT), separate from AOTA, is the organization that gives the certification exam, and one must be approved by NBCOT to take the exam. NBCOT's requirement is graduation from an entry-level occupational therapist training program that is accredited by AOTA's Accreditation Council for Occupational Therapy Education (ACOTE) or approved by the World Federation of Occupational Therapists (WFOT). See the NBCOT website for information on exam eligibility and administration at <http://www.nbcot.org>. ACOTE only accredits post-baccalaureate programs, so NBCOT requires internationally-trained occupational therapists to meet the same standard.

 - b) Source of information

See "Educational Requirements"

7. Legal or Governmental exams or requirements:

a) For foreign therapists : Getting registered

b) Source of information

Therapists must meet the regulatory requirements of a state of jurisdiction in order to practice. In addition to passing the certification examination, 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico regulate occupational therapy services. Most of these jurisdictions require continuing education to maintain a license. Each state in the United States has a regulatory board and a professional association that provides resources regarding practice and continuing education. Contact the state regulatory board to determine the particular requirements of that state for initial and continuing ability to practice occupational therapy. Information on state associations is located on the AOTA home page at <http://www.aota.org>. Some states require a social security number to obtain a state license. Read about getting a social security number at this link: <http://www.ssa.gov>.

8. Minimum requirements for employment:

a) Years of experience

No minimum requirement

b) WFOT approved school or other

See "Educational Requirements"

c) Language

English is the language spoken in the United States. All candidates must demonstrate English-language proficiency. Graduates of occupational therapy programs in Australia, Canada (except Quebec), Ireland, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom are currently exempt. See NBCOT's website for more information at <http://www.nbcot.org>.
